GEORGETOWN.

Kuhn, Miss Margaret Cady, Miss Eleanor Tennison, Miss May Boyle, and Miss Clements. There were about two hundred guests, and the affair was pronounced a decided success by all those who attended.

Mrs. Burrell was the hostess of an attractive Easter party for children last Thursday afternoon at her home in Thirty-first street. The house was prettily arranged with spring flowers and Easter favors, and late in the afternoon supper was served in the dining-room. Among the prize games was "Pinning the hat on Foxy Grandpa," and there were several other attractive features to entertain the little ones. Among the fortunate winners of the prizes were Miss Violetta Wilson and Mr. Balch Beall Wilson, Jr. Each little girl received a doll, and each little boy was presented with a fancy box of crayons, and every little guest was given a French motto hat. Among those who enjoyed the afternoon were Miss Emily Mackall, Miss Margaret Mackall, Miss Elizabeth Pearce, Miss Margaret Rohrer, Miss Lenora Greenlease, Miss Elizabeth Greenlease, Miss Katherine McReynolds, Miss Katherine Berry, Miss Violetta Wilson, Miss Virginia Thompson, Miss Dorothy Burrell, Miss Elizabeth Thompson, Miss Kate Nicholson, Miss Ella Burrell, Master Charles Mackall, Master Lloyd Burrell, Master McReynolds, Master Philip Berry, Master Richard MacCartney, Master Junior Burrell, Master Van Manning, Master Fred Bradley, Master Balch Beall Wilson, and Mr. Fontaine Bradley.

The first of the new series of dances, which was held last Tuesday evening at the Dumbarton Club, was a brilliant affair. The club rooms were crowded, and after the dancing several large supper parties were held in the dining-room. Among the members and their guests present were Mr. and Mrs. David Agnew Greenleaf, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pleasant Brook, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Casey, Miss Louise Cox, Miss Louise White, Miss Anna Hubbard, Miss Addie Hubbard, Miss Minna Ward, Miss Edith Ward, Miss Margaret Young, Miss Agnes Harvey, Miss Madge Clarke, Miss Margaret Easterday, Miss Ella Waddy, of Norfolk, Va., Miss Mary Harvey, Miss Fisher, Miss Josephine Harvey, Miss Julia Lippert, Miss Helen Acker, Mr. James Drysdale, Mr. Langdon Moore, Mr. John Ballinger, Mr. Richard Hooper Dixon, of Cambridge, Md., Mr. Anthony Goffiales, Mr. Kent Roberts, Mr. Howard Wright, Mr. Ogden Bowie Roberts, Mr. Albert Howard, Mr. William Naylor, Mr. Edward Halbert, Dr. Charles L. Miss Nannie Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pierce, of P street, was the hostess at a delightful dance last Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Katherine Dickman, daughter of Maj. Joseph T. Dickman, U. S. A., and Miss Florence Viers of Montgomery County, Md., who have been visiting her during the Easter holidays. The drawing-room and halls were profusely decorated with quantities of pink spring flowers, palms, and numbers of pink shaded candles. The same color scheme was carried out in the dining-room, from where a dainty buffet supper was served. Mrs. Pierce assisted her daughter in receiving her guests, the latter wearing a pretty director gown of soft pink satin. Miss Dickman was dressed in pink hosiery with touches of gold, and Miss Viers wore an attractive empire costume of rose-colored tulle de chine. Miss Pierce's guests included Dr. and Mrs. William Clarence Gwynn, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. McBurney, Miss Edith Pigeon, Miss Augusta Young, of Chicago, Miss Pollie Irwin, Miss Doris Cissel, Miss Helen Cissel, Miss Daisy Mackall, Miss Nina Mackall, Miss Marion Lindsey, Miss Anna Fulton, Miss Marguerite Eberly, Miss Ethel Seby, of New Jersey, Mr. George Howard, Mr. Ira Dalrymple, Mr. Charles Butler, Mr. Llewellyn Powell, Mr. Floyd Cissel, Mr. David Hendricks, Mr. Burley Hamilton, Mr. Blaine Mallon, Mr. Frank Pelee, Mr. Ralph Quinter, Mr. Orville Lamberton, Mr. Robert Pelee, Mr. Jesse Brown, Mr. Thomas Sebrill, Mr. Burt, and Mr. Charles Pelee.

Life-saver's Record.

From the London Standard.

The retirement from the post of coxswain in the Yarmouth lifeboat of Walter Brundish is announced. He joined the crew in 1890, and in twelve months became second coxswain, taking the coveted honor of first coxswain in 1900. In just twenty years the lifeboat has gone out only three times without him, and on two of these occasions he was on a holiday. He and his crew have saved a great number of lives, and Brundish on one occasion hung on to the bark Sarsa, wrecked on the North Sand in the month of January, fourteen hours, until all her ten hands had been taken off. It is not long since he saved six hands from the Scotch boat Twilight, and one of his last experiences was to go off to a Scotch steam drifter on Scroby Sand, and save the vessel and all sort of resistance on the part of the crew, three of whom were saved from the sea when their small boat capsized. Though relinquishing his leadership of the lifeboat, Brundish will still be ready to go out if his services are required.

Wanted: A Clock.

Emma C. Dowd, in Good Housekeeping.

I've a clock of silver, a marble clock, And a clock with a cuckoo cry;

But the moments vanish, flock by flock, Masses of work my labors mock.

For, alas! I never have found a clock, That goes the other way.

Never any kind of a clock, That ticks toward yesterday.

BANQUET AND REUNION HELD

Men's Club of All Souls' Church Hears Interesting Talks.

Senator Fletcher, of Florida, Discusses Growth of Unitarianism in His State.

The Men's Club, of All Souls' Church, met at the Ebbitt House Tuesday evening for a banquet and social reunion, about sixty persons being present. A discussion of various topics by members and invited guests followed the dinner.

Senator D. U. Fletcher, of Florida, spoke of the vigorous growth of Unitarianism in his State, especially in Jacksonville, and the newly awakened interest therein through various sections of the South. The Florida of to-day is one of the most healthful places in the Union, with a cooler summer season than Washington City can boast, he said.

Rev. Alfred R. Hussey, pastor of the Unitarian church in Baltimore, spoke of the condition of Unitarianism in the Monumental City. E. G. Gover, president of the Men's Club, of the Baltimore Unitarian church, outlined some of the features of its social and intellectual entertainments at home. Mr. Grosvenor Davis, president of the Southern Commercial Congress, interestingly described the primal steps taken in the South for the formation of this congress, outlining at length its aims, objects, and prospects. Hon. William E. Chandler, formerly Senator from New Hampshire, spoke of the steady growth of Unitarianism in Washington, and the pressing need of its church for larger quarters.

Rev. Clay McCauley, representing the National Unitarian Association, gave an interesting sketch of the inception of the Unitarian Society in Washington, the erection in 1877 of the present church edifice on the grounds of which he had himself turned up the first spadeful of earth, preparatory to the laying of the corner stone.

Bernard R. Green spoke respecting the growth and expansion of the church in this city, illustrating the increasing demand for a larger church building by relating several pertinent anecdotes. Prof. Joseph S. Clarke and D. T. Deuty gave interesting reminiscences, and were followed by Rev. Mr. Pierce, pastor of All Souls' Church, who spoke earnestly on the ethical aspects of the problems now confronting the church. Delbert H. Decker, president of the club, closed the proceedings in a congratulatory and felicitous vein, respecting the enjoyable reunion of the evening.

Among those present were the following: The council of the club, consisting of Delbert H. Decker, president; Col. Royal E. Whitman, vice president; Walter E. Blount, secretary; J. Jerome Lightfoot, treasurer; Hon. William E. Chandler, James E. Hood, Louis A. Simon, Rev. U. G. Pierce, ex-officio, and George N. Brown, chairman of the entertainment committee; Rev. Alfred R. Hussey, of Baltimore; E. G. Gover, president Unitarian Club, Baltimore; Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, Grosvenor Davis, Rev. Clay McCauley, Maj. Gen. Greeley, Col. Henry F. Blount, Henry F. Holden, James F. Hood, William M. McConnell, Prof. Joseph F. Clarke, Archibald King, Dr. Starr Parsons, A. M. Holcombe, Edward Collins, James H. Hamill, James Cuthbert, A. H. Herschel, Bernard R. Green, Maj. S. Willard Saxton, Prof. Henry Farquhar, Louis H. Stabler, R. F. Jackson, D. E. Deuty, Judge S. I. Kimball, William L. Brown, W. H. Lemon, R. T. Umbastetter, J. McD. Stewart, Louis F. Holden, C. W. Porter, W. E. Todd, James M. Flint, William M. Lytle, Chauncey C. Williams, G. V. Norwood, Prof. Charles A. Davis, David White, John W. Butterfield, M. F. W. Clarke, S. R. Bond, W. F. Roberts, and Dr. M. S. Isman.

Powdered Glass in Sandpaper.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"There is no sand in sandpaper," said the manufacturer. "It is powdered glass that does the business. That's where the broken bottles go to." He nodded toward an Everest of broken bottles in the yard. "We powder the glass in half a dozen grades," he said. "We coat our paper with an even layer of hot glue. Then, without loss of time, we spread on the glass powder. Finally we run a wooden roller lightly over the sheets to give them a good surface. When in the past they made sandpaper of sand it wouldn't do a quarter of the work that glasspaper does."

FROM WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW

I think I see signs of a return of domesticity to my sex. I am told that furnished homes—tiny, complete apartments, to be sure—are becoming common in cities of any pretensions to size, because there is a demand for them by theatrical folk, the members of companies playing extended engagements at one playhouse, also by business men whose families travel with them. These are in addition to the families which spend a goodly portion of the year at country homes and do not care to have the trouble and expense of two establishments.

In one of the late divorce sensations, the woman placed the blame of the trouble upon the blindness of her husband, who refused to believe in her domestic tendencies, and sought to make a brilliant career for her. If we are to believe her statements she has always had a yearning for homely domestic tasks and motherhood, and has abhorred the life which made a real home out of the question. I have been hearing complaints from working women who are tired out and dream of homes where they can stay indoors in nasty weather, lie down when tired or ill, and find time enough to eat meals in Christian fashion, and sleep without one eye on the clock.

One of these, a saleswoman in a cloak department, has actually hired out as housekeeper to one of her customers. She was brought up to housewifely ways, and is to have entire charge of the establishment as if it were her own, and the family members were boarders. The mistress of the house is in bad health and considers herself remarkably fortunate in securing a responsible worker. She will travel some with her husband and have the satisfaction of knowing that her children are as well cared for as if she were at the helm.

The little furnished apartments to which I have referred are popular with many working women without family. Two or three hand together, hire a woman to "do up" the place after they have gone to their work, and buy supplies from a list furnished by them and have the comforts of a real home and the companionship which keeps moribundity at bay. General each has her own bed, even though the dining-room is sacrificed, for meals can always be served in the living-room. The home I know best has a cunning little kitchen with a bench, whose back can be converted into a table top.

Breakfast is served there and is prepared by the women, each serving a whole week in the capacity of cook in the morning. Coffee, rolls, fruit, and eggs are not hard to prepare, especially as the table is left to be cleared away by the chore woman, who lays the supper table in the living-room, and does what she can toward that meal after she has put the place in order. She receives $5 a month for her work and has four other small families to look after at the same price. Living expenses, divided by three, are small, so a good noon dinner can be afforded and that is taken near the place of business. Those women are having a fine time in life and saving money while doing it. Once a month they buy tickets to the theater, always on Saturday night or the afternoon of a holiday. They have a little company and go out a bit, but they never forget the importance of sleep.
